

Introducing Communications MosaicSM

Communications Mosaic gives you access to a wide range of highly searchable databases loaded with valuable information on communications law, policy, and regulation.

Cut Through the Clutter

We are pleased to introduce you to the Communications Mosaic Website and News Service, an innovative online platform for research in communications law and regulation. Launched in May 2004, we developed Communications Mosaic for broadcast and telecom professionals in response to their need for a comprehensive, yet simple and uncluttered environment for communications research. Using our cutting edge technology, you can now locate information in seconds that could otherwise take you hours using multiple sources.

Track Significant Industry Trends Carefully.

- Users can easily access information about the FCC's authorizations for transfers and assignment of licenses; data includes applications, notices, orders, and record documents.
- Communications Mosaic offers a structured body of regulatory and judicial information on telecom, internet, and media "hot topics" that promise to significantly impact the communications industry.
- Follow your competitors' financial and disclosure activities through our searchable database of real-time SEC filings of companies in the communications industry.

Master the Legal and Regulatory Landscape.

- Isolate relevant U.S. Code sections by searching for specific text within our current Federal Communications Laws database. Also, search recently enacted public laws and public law amendments affecting 47 USC.
- Custom document creation allows you to compile pertinent regulation sections from our federal regulations database into one document.
- Interpret current FCC Regulations with the help of our Regulatory History database. Search amendment history text as published in the Federal Register, viewable in PDF.
- Search our Legislative Status database to monitor bills pertaining to communications, telecom, and broadcast regulation currently in legislative process in the United States Congress.

Stay Tuned to the FCC Rulemaking Process.

- Stay apprised of the most recent NOIs, NPRMs, Orders, News Releases, and Public Notices by simply selecting desired fields in our FCC Releases database.
- Track all official records related to a particular FCC proceeding by quickly and efficiently accessing valuable Comment Filings.

- Instantly locate FCC Final and Proposed Rules, along with relevant effective and deadline dates in our Federal Register database.
- Print from our database of current (and some interactive) FCC Forms.

Vast Collection of Legal Memos and Court Cases.

- Consult FCC Federal Court Cases for precedence setting opinions searchable by case name, citation, and year.
- Find clarification and interpretation of specific communications topics in our Law Firm Memos database, containing over 3,000 memos from leading law firms.

We Gather and Distill Important News for You.

- Delivered via email within minutes of the FCC's posting, the day's FCC Daily Digest and Headlines appears in an enhanced format and includes all FCC Headlines released in the previous 24 hours, with links to full text.
- The Daily Communications Mosaic News gives you instant access to the important communications news of the day in an easy-to-read format.
- Link to the full text of articles from the national and international press, listings of FCC news and regulatory releases, an effective dates calendar, legislative status calendar, and a listing of recent law firm memos.

Extend Your Reach with Key Resources.

- Quickly link to associations, organizations, and government agencies related to the telecommunications and broadcast industries.
- Use our searchable CORES database to locate contact information on all entities conducting business with the FCC and assigned an FCC Registration Number.
